Enforced Liquidation Is Started by Selling for London Account.

EXCHANGE RATES RISE.

Bears Have a Field Day, but There Is Good Buying on the Break.

Wall Street, December 13. Liquidation of the most pronounced character occurred in to-day's stock market. Just before the close the condition was semi-panicky. Commission bousés were compelled to throw over large blocks of stock for speculators, who had not responded to calls for margins. As usual under such circumstances, the bears took advantage of this enforced liquidation by very heavy sales of short stocks. The volume of transactions was very large, being second only to those of Monday, of any recent date. The reverse which the British susonly to those of Monday, of any recent date. The reverse which the British sustained in South Africa was the principal influence in starting the decline. London quotations were off before the opening of the local market and sought even lower levels after the trading commenced here. Selling for London account was the first depressing influence. It is variously estimated that between 60,000 and 100,000 shares were liquidated here for English account. For the arst time in weeks the bond market was heavy, the financial institutions in London marketing several large blocks here, many of them at private sale for the purpose of increasing the chances of drawing gold from this centre. It was the London weakness essentially which unsettled the local market. By no means the most unimportant report in circulation was one to the effect that the Bank of England would make another advance in its discount rate to morrow. Call loan rates here were not particularly high, most of the day's loans being made at 6 to 7 per cent. Sterling exchange was, however, very strong, clearly indicating a movement of gold to Europe within the very near future. Rumor became current lust before the close that the January and February interest on Government bonds without relate and that the plan for the purchase of other Government bonds was likely to be matured within a few days. Rallway stocks sold off with the tudustrial shares. The feature was the heaviness of such standard securities as Burlington, St. Paul 2nd New York Central. The boying on the break was the best which the market has seen for many days. Following are the sales of stocks and

BARGAIN HUNTERS AT WORK

In such a market as yesterday the actual value of securities cuts no figure. Reason takes its departure, and even the most level-headed men become demoralized, unloading both investment and speculative holdings without regard to their intrinsic worth. Of course, at such a time there are some financiers who quietly pick up the sacrificed securities. Such a movement was certainly in progress just at the close of the stock market. How much further the decline may run is rather difficult to tell. It is evident, however, that there has been no change in general conditions, and that many of the railway and industrial stocks are relatively cheap at the present low prices.
